1958 SKYLNIE, NCAA REGION 7 CHAMPS

Season Summary: But What About NCAA?

Cougars, Fans Give Foes Bad Time

by Hartt Wixom
Daily Universe Sports Editor

It's been a long road for Coach Jay Van Noy's baseball crew. But in spite of winning the right to compete for the national diamond championship in quelling Colorado State's Bears over the past weekend, a school ruling may prevent the Cats treking to Omaha June 13-17.

Tournament play in Omaha as it is now organized, would mean a violation of Brigham Young University rules concerning athletic competition on Sunday.

The long road for the Cats started with a conditioning trip to California after which the Cougars battled down the wire with Utah for the Western Division baseball championship. The Cats finally took it in a playoff with the Redskins, 17-2.

Next, the Cougars subdued New Mexico's Eastern Division Champs 11-3 and 9-3. By now Coach Jay Van Noy's forces were beginning to average well above .300 in team batting and leave little to be desired on the field. Fans had plenty to shout about—if they were shouting for the Cougars.

Next opponent, the Colorado State Bears of Greely, Colo., gave the Cats perhaps their stiffest competition. With hurler Jack Sbipp notching a couple of wins, one in relief of Glen Hatch in the first game, as well as third baseman Paul "Whitey" Haynie's timely triple in the third fray, the Cats came out on top.

BYU was thus qualified to enter NCAA competition in Omaha for the national baseball championship."

But, in summing up the region's baseball wars something could well be said about the fans in the Bears' series. According to the players themselves, as well as the coaches, in spite of what it looked like on the field, the fans caused some ill-will between the two schools. One Bear player, after taking abuse from the field, went inside to find his locker rifled, and $100 gone. It's too bad this had to happen at BYU, or anywhere for that matter.

So, at the end of the regular 1958 diamond season, the Cougers are emerging with a baseball power commensurate with basketball and track glory of the past. If the NCAA moguls see fit to let the Cats compete for the NCAA crown on some day other than Sunday, then perhaps Jay Van Noy's forces will heap additional athletic honors on the Church school.

It will, that is, if the fans can show the higher class of sportsmanship that the team has done in walking the long road to the District Seven Championship.

Summer School Books Classes, Entertainment

A full quarter of academic work is being offered through Brigham Young University Summer School June 16 to August 22, announced Dr. Howard T. Reid, directing summer school director.

Nearly 800 courses are being offered in more than 50 departments. In addition to the resident faculty, 30 outside experts are being brought to the campus to teach classes, conduct workshops and carry on other phases of the summer school program.

New and regular students may enter any time between now and June 17 without paying the late fee, said Dr. Reid. First ten-week term of the ten-week summer quarter begins June 16 and late fees for registration will be assessed until June 18.

Dr. Reid estimates that more than 4500 students will be in attendance during the summer quarter. Another 2500 people are expected to be on campus during Leadership Week which begins June 23.

First term for the summer session ends July 18. Second term runs July 21 to August 22. The summer convocation of the 83rd Commencement will be the evening of August 22. Last year 425 persons received degrees at the convocation. Masters degrees were given to 66.

Highlights of the summer quarter include besides Leadership Week activities and Summer Music Festival and the annual Timpanogos Hike. A series of concerts and recitals and a two-week music clinic will make up the festival.

Beginning at Aspen Grove July 18, hikers from all over will make the 51st annual climb up the 12,000 foot peak of Timpanogos.

Commencement Week Finishes 4-Year Stay

Graduating seniors are taking a last look at Brigham Young University and are being feted at several events during the 83rd annual Commencement Week.

Seniors and guests will be treated to a breakfast by the junior eass officers Friday morning. Planned for the lawn east of Smith Bldg, the breakfast will feature toasts given by student leaders on the different phases of campus life. A guest speaker will also be at the event.

Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, president of the university, will host graduates, faculty, alumni and guests at the President's Reception 4:30 p.m. on the lawn of his home.

Commencement exercises will begin with the traditional march at 6:45 p.m. Friday. Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. also in Smith Fieldhouse. Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, president of George Washington University, will be Commencement speaker.
